

March 28, 2021 - Palm Sunday

The killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis in May 2020 seemed to open the eyes of many in the U.S. and the world about how racism manifests. Throughout the past five Sundays of the Lenten Season, we've posed reflection questions designed to help each of us look inside ourselves to consider the often-difficult topic of racism and the even more challenging struggle of how to achieve racial healing.

Reflecting on those Lenten questions, what have you learned about the suffering that racism creates? Like the Pharisees when Jesus heals a man born blind (in Week 4's Gospel), what ways—if any—have you been blind to that suffering? What more is there for you to learn now? How might God be calling you to be an instrument of healing in this moment?

What else can you/would you like to explore regarding racism, its roots and its history? What are some next steps for you to take to learn more? What will you do to promote racial reconciliation and healing?
